By Claudia Dobson Largie

In her captivating memoir, Country Jumper In Afghanistan, Claudia Dobson Largie invites us on an extraordinary journey into the heart of a country that has been plagued by war and poverty for decades. As a female aid worker, Largie spent years living and working in Afghanistan, gaining a unique perspective on the country's complex history, culture, and people.

Largie's writing is both deeply personal and illuminating, offering a nuanced understanding of Afghanistan beyond the headlines. She shares her experiences of working with local communities, navigating the challenges of a patriarchal society, and witnessing the devastating impact of war. But she also finds moments of hope and resilience, celebrating the indomitable spirit of the Afghan people.

Country Jumper In Afghanistan is a must-read for anyone interested in Afghanistan, international development, or the experiences of women in conflict zones. Largie's vivid storytelling and keen insights provide a valuable contribution to our understanding of this troubled land.
