Paris: The Biography of a City is a sweeping narrative of the French capital, from its humble beginnings as a Roman outpost to its glittering status as the City of Light. This richly illustrated book brings to life the people, places, and events that have shaped Paris over the centuries.

The book begins with the founding of Paris by the Celts in the 3rd century BC. It then follows the city's development through the Roman era, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, and the Enlightenment. We see Paris grow from a small village to a major center of learning and culture. We see it become a global capital of fashion, art, and food. And we see it endure wars, revolutions, and occupations.

Paris: The Biography of a City is a must-read for anyone who loves Paris or who wants to learn more about its rich history. It is a book that will transport you to the streets of Paris and allow you to experience the city's magic for yourself.
